

News from the City of Dearborn

Dearborn – Clean and Safe

John B. O'Reilly, Jr., Mayor

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

July 27, 2007

Dearborn residents and business owners urged to report problems with electric power to Michigan Public Service Commission

DEARBORN, Mich. – Dearborn residents and business owners who are experiencing problems with electrical power – such as low voltage, brownouts or loss of power – are urged to report their problems to the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC).

Mayor John B. O'Reilly, Jr., is calling for citizens to get involved, in order to ensure that the MPSC has evidence of ongoing power problems in Dearborn. Mayor O'Reilly and other city officials continue to pursue a longtime campaign to work with electric providers to resolve power problems in Dearborn.

To report a problem, use any of the following methods:

- By mail – Michigan Public Service Commission, P.O. Box 30221, Lansing, MI, 48909.
- By phone – 1.800.292.9555.
- On the internet –

<http://www.dleg.state.mi.us/mpsc/electric/eleccomplaint.htm>

When you make your complaint, be prepared to report specific problems you've experienced during power outages or brownout conditions. Examples of details to report could include damaged appliances and large quantities of discarded food caused by power outages or brownouts.